EDITOR NOTE

Dear Readers,

When I started this magazine, I never thought that we would come so far in our literary journey. We met so many amazing self-published authors and readers who surprised me with their extraordinary imaginations. Now

I proudly say that we came up with our 12th edition, and where a year has gone, I didn't even realize. This whole year of lockdown is very tough for all of us, but you all made my year full of memories and new achievements month by month. I want to thank each one of you, every reader, author, and our social media followers, you all played an important role in the success of KidlioMag Magazine. You all inspired and encouraged me at every point in time.

To everyone who has been a part of this journey, I wholeheartedly thank you and express my gratitude.

Happy Easter

Q: First tell us something about yourself ?

I am a native of Augusta, Georgia. I am an author, inspirational speaker, and educator. I have my Bachelor of Science degree in Early Childhood Education from Fort Valley State University (Fort Valley, Georgia) and my Master of Education degree in Curriculum and Instruction from the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis, Minnesota). I have published two books. My second book, Hello Queen is my first children's book. I enjoy traveling, public speaking, and liturgical dancing.

Q: How and when did your journey started as a writer?

My journey started when I was in the 11th grade. I had to write a poem about myself for a literature assignment. I was then encouraged by a local librarian to submit my poem into a writing contest and it was published in the Fall 1996 Edition of Treasured Poems of America.

Q: When did you write your first story? Is it published or not?

My first published work is the poem, "I Am An African Queen." It was published in the Fall 1996 edition of Treasured Poems of America. I later included the poem in my first book, Writings From Down Through the Years, which is a collection of inspirational poetry and readings.

Q: Tell us something more about your books?

I seek to encourage and inspire others with my heartfelt words. I also want to increase the percentage of children's books with African/African-American characters.

Q: Why do you choose kids as your reader ? Is there any specific reason?

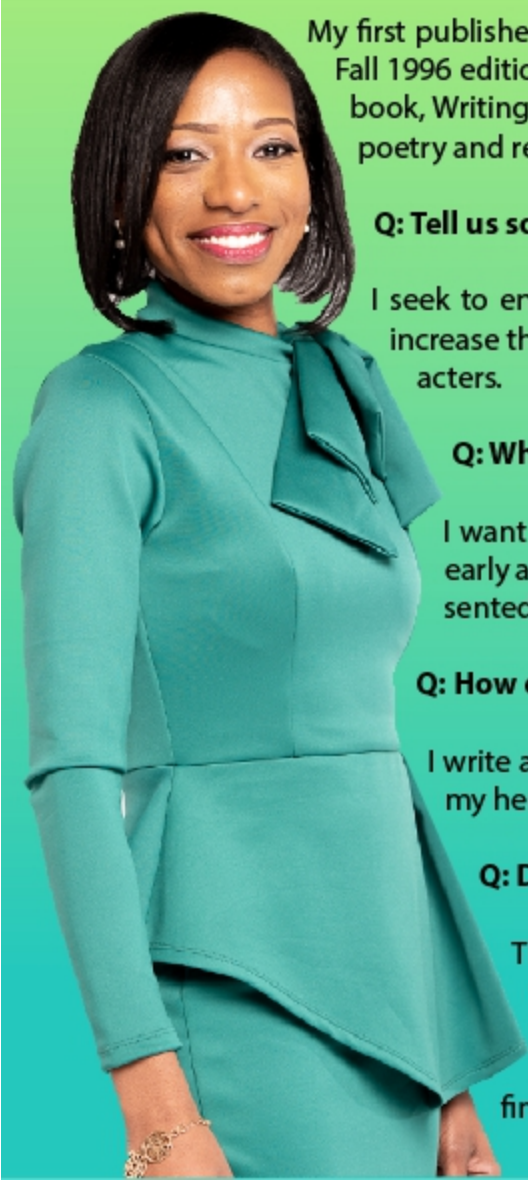

I want to encourage children to have a love for reading and learning at an early age. I also think that it is important for children to see themselves represented in the books they read.

Q: How did these stories and characters come to your mind?

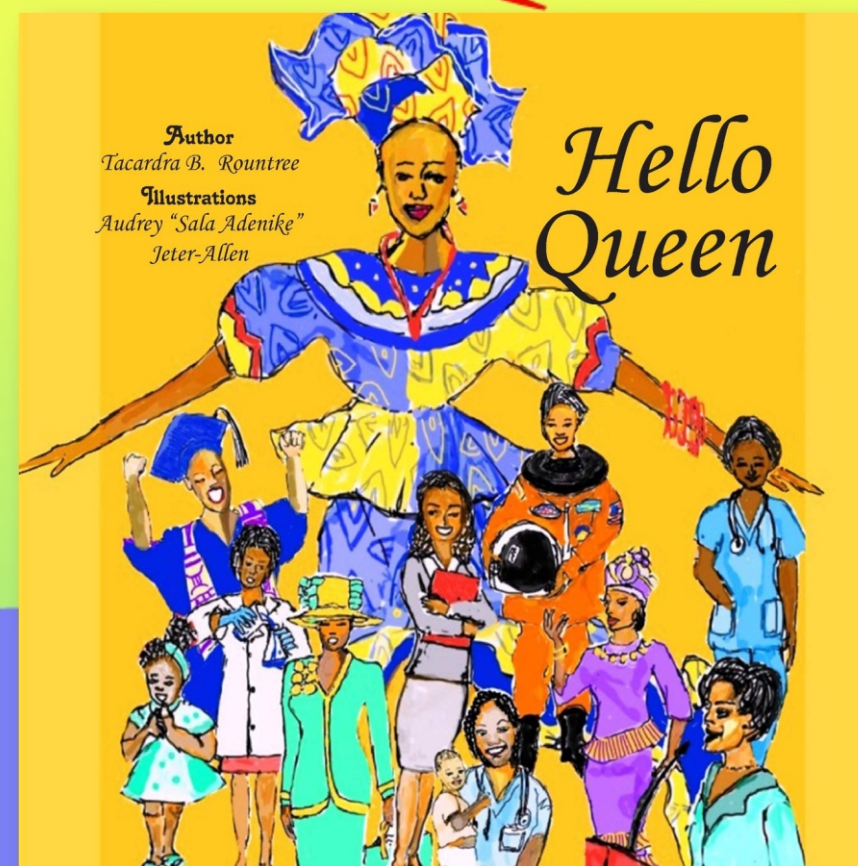

I write about my life experiences. I want to always motivate others and honor my heritage through my writings.

Q: Do you want to give any message for your readers?

The Merriam-Webster's Learner's Dictionary defines passion as a strong feeling of enthusiasm or excitement for something or about doing something. My passion is sharing positive messages through poetry, books, and speeches. I encourage you to find your passion. Once you find your passion, you will have the key to success in your life.

The Adventures of Bentley Hippo

Inspiring Children to be Patient

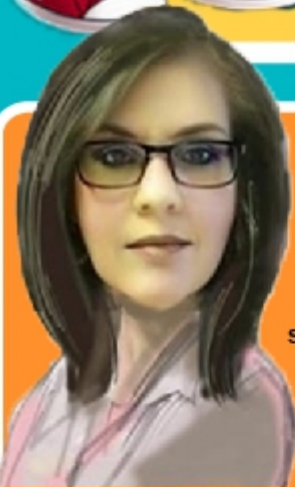

A loud knock at the front door has Bentley startled. Who could it be?

An excited Jaxon, rambles on not making any sense. Racing ahead pointing in the distance, Bentley follows this silly monkey. A large crowd has gathered making it impossible for Jaxon to see what the fuss is all about. Sprinting to the front of the line, Jaxon is stopped and directed to the back of the line by the ticket agent. Frustrated, Jaxon looks around, waiting for the right moment. Determined, he makes a mad dash.

Argyro Graphy was born and raised in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Kindness, respect, love, gratitude, appreciation, and family were the values she was taught growing up. Bullying was a part of her life that she never spoke of, never shared, and hoped many times, would just go away and be forgotten. Those memories remain within her. As the years passed, she observed children feeling a sense of entitlement and feeling superior to others. Bullying soon replaced the very values she was taught. Knowing firsthand the scars and effects this had on her, she was determined to find a way to teach children that, although some find bullying funny, the long-term effects could be quite damaging if not addressed early on. She found that way when she created Bentley the Hippo. At the start of her journey as an author, she experienced a life-changing trauma when a routine eye procedure robbed her of her sight overnight, but even with her new daily struggles she never quit. Through writing, she has found a way to pass on her message to children. Bentley is Argyro's inner voice and her goal is to build him to become recognized as the one who made a difference in all of us and in the world.

To help children on the right path, she launched Appreciation Journals to help children start and end each day with gratitude. Every day features an affirmation to help build self-esteem, boost self-confidence and be kind not only to others but to themselves (available in 7 languages)

When asked what plans she has for Bentley, she replied "I don't have plans for Bentley, he has plans for me, but all will include kindness to our environment/planet, to animals, to each other and to ourselves."

Argyro uses her adept marketing skills to promote not only her own books but works from other authors as well.

CHELSEA CHISOM ONYIRIUKA

Q: What inspired you to write a book?

When I was 4, I was in preschool and a girl in my class bullied me. She was talking about my skin and the texture of my hair. It hurt my feelings and made me sad. I went home and shared with my mom what happened, because my mom loves to write stories and publish books, she decided to help me share my story in a book; I titled, "Beauty and Me". It empowers me to know that "I am Beautiful, Loved and Important." I want all boys and girls around the world to also know they are Beautiful, loved, and important!

Q: What are some of your goals for the future?

I want to write more books, educate my peers and other children through our EpicPreneurs program. They will become their own CEO while creating a brand. We will show them how they can collect silver coins, even travel the United States and the world to sightsee, enjoy, learn, and do Humanitarian acts.

Q: What take away message do you want children around the world to know?

I want them to know that they are not too young to be their OWN boss. They can become a business owner with the help of their parents and decide to

Q: As an Author how did it feel to publish your first book, and to see others buy it?

It was extremely exciting, when I first got my book, I jumped up for joy seeing the book in person was amazing. It made me happy to see others buy it because my message was now in other people's homes.

Q: What does black excellence mean to you?

Extraordinary, wonderful, powerful, beautiful, strong, and energizing,

Q: What role did you, your mother, or women in your family play in your success of becoming a Kidpreneur and writer?

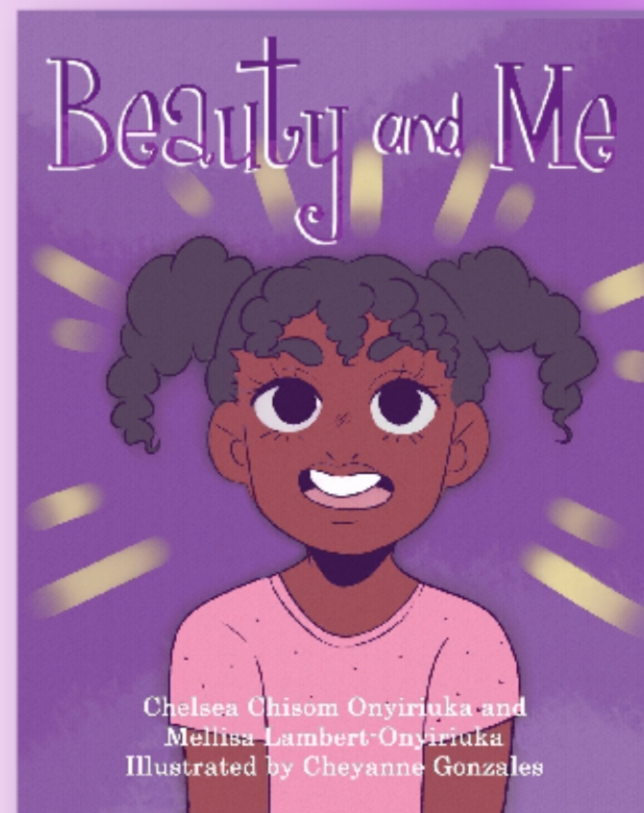

My mom is my manager who helps me create my story, publish my books, and market my brand. She lives by example as a businesswoman herself. She shows me what success looks like and I am happy that I have a mom like her.

DINOSAURS ON THE MOON

Alexandria Gaetani

Alexandria Gaetani

Children's book author, Alexandria Gaetani, is a wife and mother, living with her family in New Jersey. She released her first book "Little Bug Stuck At Home" illustrated by her daughter to help kids deal with the isolation and loneliness caused by living in the pandemic and in quarantine this past year. Recently, she announced the release of her newest book "Dinosaurs on the Moon" which follows the story of a young dinosaur living on the Moon, a strange place to call home. Inspired by the new normal of home schooling, virtual learning, and wearing masks in the classroom, "Dinosaurs on the Moon" is a light hearted read, perfect for kids and families of all ages. Will Tank the T-Rex ever get used to wearing his silly, ginormous, very annoying helmet?

Dinosaurs on the Moon

Dinosaurs... on the Moon? Everyone knows the story of the dinosaurs. Or is there more to the story that has been kept a secret for millions of years?!

Tank the T-Rex is a young, sassy, and loveable dinosaur that is ready to share with you the secret story that nobody knows. A story about dinosaurs and what exactly happened after the "big event" that made them leave planet Earth. Tank was born and raised in this new land among other dinosaurs. He is happy to make some new friends when he goes to school, but will he ever get used to wearing that huge space helmet?

A light hearted and funny tale about a modern day dinosaur who learns about adapting to change in a scary new world. Perfect for kids of all ages! A fun read for students to relate to during virtual learning, homeschooling, and the new normal of wearing face masks during school.

PLANET R

This is my Planet R. It has Floating clouds and anyone can pull them down and ride on them. There are floating bikes. I am the king of the planet R. There are multiple oceans, aliens. On planet R there is no fight. People do not need money to buy things. There is no covid. Air is clean and the food is good. I wish Earth could be like Planet R.

Ms. Terri Johnson

Q: First tell us something about yourself?

My name is Terri Johnson. I was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland, USA. I am the daughter of the Most High, a mama to two young adult children, a pet parent to an adoptive cat, a sassy Yorkie and a mischievous red-ear slider turtle. Also, this year I will celebrate 25 years as a social worker, a profession that has shaped me personally, professionally and that I love enormously! I'm a lover of the arts: music, dance, visual etc.

Q: How and when your journey started as a writer?

As a child, I kept an "Ideas book" that I wrote my thoughts, dreams, stories and plans that I keep until this day. I had been told by a journalist of an independent newspaper that I had a "real talent for raw storytelling" that I should pursue, but I lacked confidence and didn't believe him. However, writing is like my therapy, and it brings me great joy.

Q: When did you write your first story? Is it published or not?

I started writing what my friend, Michelle, calls TJ-isms (my ideas and quirky sayings) and poems that's a combination of my observations, life experiences as a black woman, mama, lover and as a mental health clinician, that are "poem-like," almost 13 years ago, titled, "Voices of the Unheard..." But I haven't felt compelled to birth it into the world yet, so it is still unpublished. Over my 20 plus years of working with beautiful spirits and living for almost 50 years on this earth, I have witnessed and heard some of the most horrible things humanity can do to itself. I decided to finally share with a larger group of people ways to prevent some of the atrocities that happen, so we don't keep healing from trauma, but preventing it in the first place! So, I, finally, betted on Terri and self-published April 2020 what I call my "heart work" of the past 20 plus years, Body Safety Zones (BSZ) and Body Safety Zones (BSZ) activity and coloring books.

Q: Tell us something more about your books?

I believe being proactive is the way to go or as I call it, "prevention OVER intervention!" So, I wrote a children's book about "body safety zones" to bring about awareness and education to children 8 years or younger to prevent child abuse, exploitation and/or trafficking! Ms. B. Persistent is a school social worker that delights in teaching her students, BSZ kidz in her wellness class ways to protect themselves by being assertive, informed and empowered with knowledge about their rights and agency of their bodies regardless of with whom they may interact. It is written in a way that is fun despite the seriousness of the subject matter or perceived level of difficulty for many to tackle. I want it to be a tool for people that really love and care about the well-being of our most precious and invaluable gifts...our children! It highlights internet safety, teaches self-empowerment and self-advocacy without being so obvious in its delivery!

Q: Why do you choose kids as your reader? Is there any specific reason?

The 1st page in my book includes the following quote by Frederick Douglass and expresses best why I choose children as my audience, "It is easier to build strong children than to repair broken men." As a society we cannot afford to continually "get back" to our children! We must prevent tragedies and traumas like abuse, neglect, exploitation, trafficking from happening to them, and my children's book, Body Safety Zones (BSZ) is my way of contributing to the prevention through awareness.

"Every child deserves to be loved, protected, safe, and cared for by the adults in their lives!"

Q: How did these stories and characters come to your mind?

Body Safety Zones (BSZ) reflects the work I do with children in Baltimore City to teach them about permission, consent, etc. I wasn't the most original when I came up with the characters, lol! The BSZ kidz are names or nicknames of my own children and children in my life. Ms. B. Persistent is a play on my company's motto, "Persistence is the WAY" and a subtle empowerment message to all to be persistent in whatever they do and never give up!

Q: Do you want to give any message for your readers?

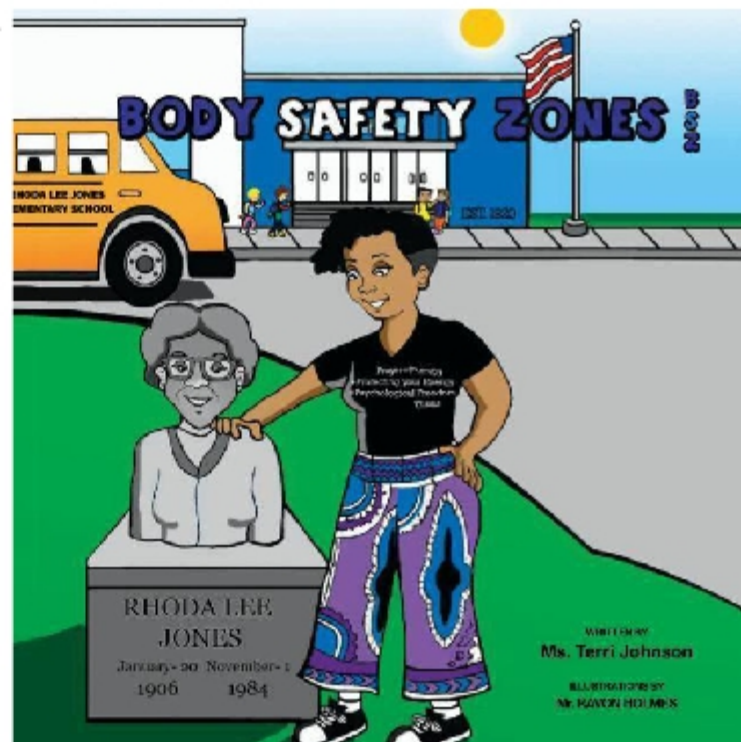

Firstly, I want to thank my readers for being proactive and loving children so much that they're willing to teach them, early, about their body safety zones, for normalizing it so it wouldn't be a weird thing to talk about! I want to encourage them to spread the word about body safety zones (bsz) so we can make it a movement that states the message clearly, "we will no longer tolerate a reactive or laissez-faire stance when it comes to the protection and well-being of our precious babies!" Lastly, to encourage them to share their story and/or ideas because there are so many people in this world that need to hear from them!

BODY SAFETY ZONES

April is awareness month for Child Abuse Prevention and Sexual Assault Awareness! It is my goal to prevent abuse from according! I truly believe there is no reason our children have to have high ACE (adverse childhood experiences) scores or receive intervention for abuse/exploitation or trafficking when teaching them their body safety zones, internet safety, self-advocacy, and self-empowerment is a powerful tool of prevention! "PREVENTION over INTERVENTION!"

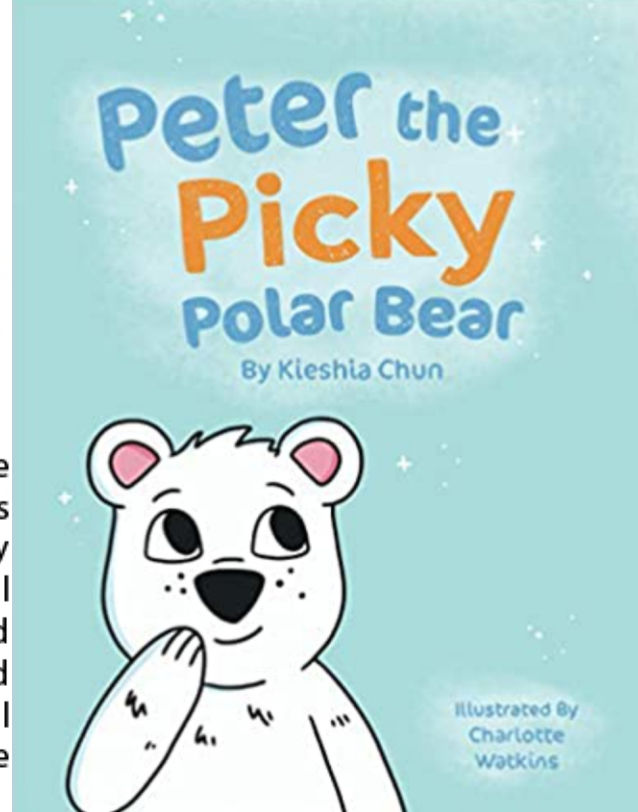

PETER THE PICKY POLAR BEAR

BY KIESHIA CHUN

Peter's mummy, his daddy and even his teacher have tried to get Peter to eat his fish, but he has made up his mind. Peter has had a very good look, and he definitely does not like fish. This beautifully simple story will encourage the pickiest of eaters to keep an open mind when there's a new food to try! The fun activity page and comprehension questions at the end of the story will promote discussion with your child and encourage understanding.

Adorable illustrations and an uncomplicated narrative will make Peter the Picky Polar Bear a firm favourite with young children.

Since turning her passion into a profession, Kieshia has written prolifically and is constantly exploring new themes, genres and ideas. Aside from writing, she is a full-time mother to her four boys, and she's never happier than when she sits down at her desk putting the opening words to a new book or story on paper.

IMAGINATION...

Imagination...a bird,

It takes you to a world unknown,

To believe as if it were known...

Imagination...an empty canvas,

It takes you to emotions hidden deep,

To make an impression so complete...

Imagination...a kaleidoscope,

It takes you through a swirl of dimensions,

To ponder on your secret inhibitions...

Imagination...an ocean,

It takes you by the waves of uncertainty,

To settle on a shore of creativity...

MIRROR

Moashella Shortte

Moashella (Michelle) Shortte is the proud mother of four beautiful children. As a mom and educator, she has been creating and sharing children's stories for many years. Growing up on the tiny Caribbean island of Bequia S.V.G. where books were at a premium, she treasured each that came her way, and when there was none, she made up stories with inspiration coming from her beautiful home and the colorful characters that were her fellow islanders. The only thing that can top her passion for books and storytelling is her love for children, so there is little wonder that she wants the first story she shares with the world to be a children's book.

MIRROR

For younger children, the book Mirror captures the beautiful, magical moment that is the discovery of self, self in all its splendid wonder.

For the older child, Mirror promotes the ever-elusive but all-important self-acceptance, the kind that leads to genuine self-esteem. And for parents, Mirror reflects the love for their child, a love that is pure and unconditional.

"SUPERHEROS EAT THE RAINBOW!"

C. Ariane
Durdan

C. Ariane Durden is a nutrition educator and author who has spent the last decade advocating good nutrition and exercises as means to fight childhood obesity. Her debut fantasy book is Becoming a Superhero, which uses southern charm and a cast of multicultural characters to encourage children to eat superfoods and become "superheroes." Becoming a Superhero is dedicated to raising a healthier generation of kids by encouraging them to eat healthily and make healthy lifestyle choices to solve the problem of childhood obesity.

Ariane was inspired by First Lady Michelle Obama's Let's Move! Initiative! while studying nutrition in Dr. Cotwright's class at the University of Georgia in 2014. She earned her B.S. degree in Family and Consumer Sciences in 2015. Since that time, she began to look for ways to motivate kids to eat healthily and exercise in fun and different ways. She thought of a way to use the food rainbow to encourage kids to eat superfoods to gain superpowers and a storyline to encourage activity. Thus, Becoming a Superhero was born in 2019. The copyright, edits, and illustrations were completed in 2020. Topped by food rainbows, her two trademarks--Superheroes eat the rainbow! and Superkids eat the rainbow! are being registered.

Ariane is a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators, Southern Breeze Branch. She loves staying active, whether that's traveling on a cruise or exercising near her home in College Park, renamed South Fulton, Georgia. She is dedicated to improving children's nutrition one plate at a time.

THE TRIP TO NETHERLANDS

Once upon a time, there were two treasure hunters, Minney and Daisy. They were good friends. One day while they were hunting for treasure on their magical ship, suddenly they felt something moving behind. "How strange!" said Minney. "Yeah" said Daisy, turning around in amazement. It was their puppy Max. The puppy spoke in a strange language that Minney and Daisy understood with ease. Then resumed their journey. On the way, they met a giant monster who was sleeping. "Oh no!" said Daisy who was scared to death, but luckily Minney sprayed some water on Daisy's face before she fell unconscious. The giant woke up during this ruckus. Seeing the giant waking up, Minney was scared too. In a split second, without Daisy's help, Minney started driving the ship as fast as she could. To her horror, she noticed that the giant could also swim. She swiftly pressed the flying mode on the ship.

The ship started flying. Max came up to Minney and licked her face. Daisy woke up. "Who saved me from that ferocious giant?" she asked. Minney said, "It was me, dear, but look, the giant is still chasing us from behind. Look behind, you can see the giant if you see from our telescope". While Minney was talking to Daisy, the ship moved towards a coconut island. There they met the famous coconut king. "Welcome to hell...."; Before the coconut king could complete his welcome, Minney said that this is not the right island that they were searching for. "The one we are looking for is in the Netherlands", said Minney. The king said, "I know where the island 'Netherlands' is. To reach the land, you will have to undergo many dangerous adventures like crossing the blue whale sea, killing a very bad monster and many more. Here, take my lifeguard 'Pinky', she will help you during your journey". Then a charming girl appeared from behind the coconut trees. "This my daughter Pinky you can take her along with you", said the coconut king. Then pinky went along and told Minney and Daisy to spend the night on the coconut island. Minney and Daisy also agreed to stay with their newfound friends. At dawn, they woke up, brushed their teeth, had a nice cool shower, and sat down for breakfast. "what do you eat on your island?" asked Pinky. Minney said, "we eat.....", "You speak all the time, let me speak this time", Daisy interrupted. "My friends, we eat all kinds of food like Jangri, Murukku, Dhokla, Khaju kathli and many more. By the way, what do you guys eat?" asked Daisy. "Yes! Yes! I too wanted to ask what you eat on your island", asked Minney. "We drink some fresh coconut juice, eat the white tender coconut pulp, make coconut salad, coconut chocolates, coconut burgers, coconut sandwiches and many more", said Pinky. Hearing this Minney and Daisy's mouths watered. "Can you give us some of your delicious food on the coconut island?" asked Minney. "Sure! What will you give us in return?" asked Pinky. "We will give some of our country food in return", said Minney and Daisy. They all went to a shop which sold all these foods and had a very nice time partying. After an hour, the coconut king said, "Stop playing kids! it's time to go to the Netherlands". Pinky, Minney and Daisy waved goodbye to the coconut king and set off on their adventure.

They crossed the blue whale sea, fought the monster, and crossed many adventures. Finally, with all their clothes ragged, they reached the Netherlands. Hooray! shouted the three of them. Here we are in the Netherlands! The trio could not believe their eyes! The island was filled with greenery, the most beautiful treasure!

Stories are everywhere, some have been traveling through the footprints between the islands, some have been in the fossilized stones, some in the silence of a jungle. The outfit might vary, the outcome might too but what keeps the collage intact is the thread called Story. Story not only connects, but it also brings life and can create a story in itself. There's a story between the spaces of the words and sentences, a story can dance with a poem too and that's what Mayaakatha is all about, where stories dance.

It's an online storytelling community that started in March 2020 with a current member list of 1500+. To date they have conducted 75+ live storytelling events, Grandma stories for Kids and Adults, Navaratri Live storytelling, 10+Interview connect with the Storytellers, 51 Poetry recital shows in different languages. With their battalion, they have started a new series #365daysofStorytellinginMayaakatha for 2021 and MayaaNrithyaKathas for February month, and Educational Storytelling for March.

Also, the little birdie says that they are planning for the Mayaakatha fest in the month of April 2021. Would you like to know what Mayaakatha is offering? Mayaa means Illusion and Katha means story, Mayaakatha offers a platform to all, to share stories, create stories, connect through stories and connect with Story. Currently, in their repository, they have around 500-600 stories.
